

Clinical Pharmacology and Nursing Management

This text sets out to provide students with a highly visual study of pharmacology, in an easy-to-understand format. It systematically relates drug therapies to specific diseases and presents nursing management for each. Included is thorough coverage of pharmacokinetics and pharmacodynamics, drug preparations, food/drug interactions, psychological and cultural aspects of drug therapy, and nursing process and care plans. New to the fourth edition are sections on issues in drug therapy, highlighted compare-and-contrasts of drugs within the same drug family, and expanded and updated drug tables.
