

Jakob + MacFarlane: NEO Architecture

The work of Paris-based architects Jakob + MacFarlane can best be described as the capture and articulation of movement, both ethereal and real. The firms focus on movement seeks to mobilise vectors of force to infuse a dynamic sensibility in its work, evident in well-known projects such as Restaurant Georges at the Pompidou Centre and the Florence Loewy Bookshop, both in Paris. The firms sophisticated design schemes are the result of high-end digital computer technology used in its design process. Jakob + MacFarlanes work has been published and exhibited widely and it has been proclaimed as a highly promising collaborative, representing the best in French architecture and architectural sensibility of the twenty-first century. This book explores a variety of Jakob + MacFarlanes projects to date, both built and unbuilt, allowing the reader an insight into the workings of a burgeoning practice.
